Heroes Rush to Aid of Explosion Victims Ere Force is Spent

Gentle Men and Women, Transformed, Wage Unrelenting Battle With Death; Eyewitnesses Relate Stories of Rescue From Acetone Blast; Victims of Heroic Mould.

The Acetone plant destroyed by fire following the explosion last Thursday, will be rebuilt.

Such was the cheerful news imparted by officials of the Norwich Chemical company, Wednesday afternoon.

A force of workmen are now engaged clearing away the debris preparatory to the building of the new structure.

The amount o fthe company's losses from the fire is not definitely known. Wednesday morning an attache of the company informed The Miner that insurance adjustments had not yet been made.

The terrible explosion at the Acetone plant of the Norwich Chemical company last Thursday morning which brought death to Chester Matton, Grant Carpenter and Fred Mencer, and which at this is written, finds Samuel and Zera Cox hovering between life and death, proved the greatest blow that Smethport has received in years.

The situation immediately following a succession of detonations, concerning the meaning of which there could be no mistake, was one where in the highest traits of human nature stood revealed. With bravery akin to rashness, men and women rushed to the scene in droves, intent on rescue, nor would they be denied participation in the work until assurance was given that all men were accounted for.

Men Ready for Home

At 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning conditions apparently were normal at the Acetone works. It was nearing the hour when the workmen on duty would be relieved for the day. A little later Fred Mencer, and Bruce Cox, their tasks finished, washed themselves, and donned street attire, ready for the journey home. As they did so they hailed their fellow workmen and bade them hurry along. To their cry Sam Cox, who was in the tower of the plant, responded with a shout and started down the stairs. When he reached the second story he was suddenly made aware that something was wrong. He saw his brother Zera, hose in hand, as if making ready to sprinkle the floor. When Zera saw him he excitedly cried: "Turn on the water!" A glance revealed that a tank was bubbling over onto the floor and that Zera hoped to lessen evaporation of the dangerous fluid by a thorough sprinkling. As Sam turned to execute Zera's command, a terrible explosion followed. That was all he knew until brought into the open air by rescuers.

In the meantime and within a comparatively few seconds, Chester Matton, the company's chemist, Grant Carpenter, Fred Mencer and Bruce Cox, well aware of the danger that aroused Zera Cox to action, started for the exits. On their way thither Bruce Cox stumbled over a pile of bricks and fell to the floor. At that instant the explosion occurred.

Fall Saves Bruce Cox.

It is related that Carpenter, Mencer and Bruce Cox found their way out of the building immediately after the blast, being guided by the latter, who escaped really dangerous burns by reason of the fiery blast passing over his body after his fall to the floor. When rescuers entered the structure they found Chester Matton and Sam and Zera Cox. It is the general opinion that if Carpenter and Mencer had fallen with Bruce Cox on their way to the exit they would have escaped fatal burns.

Dazed by their terrible experience, yet stimulated to a point of abnormal strength by the fiery element, which burned every stitch of clothing from their bodies, Mencer and Carpenter headed toward East Smethport as if in quest of aid. Ere they had proceeded many yards, however, rescuers took them in hand. By this time Sam and Zera Cox and Chester Matton were brought from the burning building. All men were in fair possession of their faculties and took counsel with their rescuers concerning the best course to pursue. Zera Cox begged to be sent to the hospital. Accompanied by two men he was taken to Bradford in a high-powered auto and in record time.

A Terrible Spectacle.

Chester Matton, Fred Mencer, Grant Carpenter, Sam Cox, and Bruce Cox were brought to Smethport and to the office of Doctor Hamilton in a large touring car. The men presented a terrible spectacle. With clothing burned from their bodies and their skin hanging in shreds, with faces seared so badly that they resembled raw beef and with hair and scalp burned almost to their skulls, not one could be recognized.

As the car stopped in front of Doctor Hamilton's office, Doctor H. L. McCoy, who had been summoned to the acetone plant, pulled up alongside. Disposition was immediately made of the injured men, Doctor McCoy superintending the removal of Mencer and Matton to their homes, while Carpenter, Sam Cox and Bruce Cox were assisted into the office of Doctor Hamilton. Examination revealed that Carpenter was the worst sufferer by far. Every stitch of his clothing was gone; only his shoes remained. In an effort to find a spot wherein to administer a hyperdermic injection, only one was discovered, and that in his foot. Although suffering terrible agony himself, Sam Cox begged Doctor Hamilton to give all of his attention to Carpenter ere paying any attention to him. Following administration of first aid to Carpenter, Doctor Hamilton sent him to the Bradford hospital forthwith. It is related that he was delivered there some 21 minutes after leaving the doctor's office. One-half hour later Sam Cox also was taken to Bradford.

Matton Fatally Burned.

With the arrival of Chester Matton at his home, Doctor Burg Chadwick administered first aid and later accompanied his patient to the Bradford hospital.

Doctor W. A. Ostrander, who was in Colegrove at the time of the explosion, heard of it via of telephone some two minutes later and, realizing that his services would be needed, made a record run for Smethport, arriving just in time to assist Doctor McCoy in caring for Fred Mencer. Mencer's condition was so bad that removal to the hospital was deemed inadvisable.

Grant Carpenter died in the Bradford hospital between 2 and 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. At 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening Fred Mencer passed away. At 9:30 o'clock Thursday night Chester Matton was relieved by death. As this is written relatives and friends of Sam and Zora Cox are hopeful of their recovery, yet withal the outcome is doubtful.

Physicians who attended the injured men express surprise over their stoicism and gameness in the face of what they knew to be certain death. When Doctor Hamilton was ministering to Carpenter, and without a murmur from the desperately injured man, he remarked: "Well, Mr. Carpenter, I believe you would make a good soldier. I haven't heard even a moan from you."

"Well, what's the use of moaning," was the reply of the man who died some two hours later.

Mencer's Thoughts of Others.

"Mencer never thought of himself. He was asking constantly how his comrades had fared," said Doctor Ostrander. "Although his case was absolutely hopeless, he didn't seem to mind it. All his interest seemed centered in his fellows. It was the greatest instance of unselfishness that ever came under my observation."

Doctor Chadwick, who attended Matton states that he was cheerful throughout the few hours of life that remained for him; that he joked with friends who visited him at the hospital and even inquired after the results of the baseball game. He also wanted to know everything concerning the other injured men, and expressed the hope that all would pull through. Matton, it seems, never realized how badly he was burned.

Sam Cox, while awaiting his turn for first aid, remarked that if he hadn't come down from the tower to the second floor he would have been blown to atoms.

Archie Mencer's Story

The most thrilling account of the explosion and the events which followed, however, comes from Archie Mencer, son of the late Fred Mencer, who, standing on the platform of the Pennsylvania depot, where he is employed as agent, witnessed the explosion and sudden ignition of the big acetone structure.

"I was standing on the depot platform facing the acetone works, not over five hundred feet distant, when suddenly I saw a lurid flame leap from doorways and windows, followed by a terrific explosion which shook the very ground beneath me," said Mr. Mencer. "That flash spelt volumes for me. I knew

Mencer, Matton and Carpenter Victims of Terrible Explosion, Men of Excellent Character

Although fearful of the worst following the terrible explosion at the Acetone plant which burned and scarred the bodies of Fred Mencer, T. Chester Matton and Grant Carpenter beyond recognition, all Smethport bowed in grief Thursday night when the news came that the Angel of Death had relieved the stricken men of their sufferings. Since their summons, however, the news has come that Samuel and Zera Cox, whose lives also were despaired of, have withstood the ordeal so well as to give rise to hopes of recovery. May it be so.

Brief epochs of the men whose lives were blotted out in the greatest tragic event in Smethport's history follow:

FRED MENCER.

Fred Mencer, aged 51 years, was born in Hazen, Pa., July 12, 1871. He was a resident of DeYoung, Pa., for about 20 years, where he was employed as a lineman by the Northern Oil company. At DeYoung he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Smetts, May 13, 1895. To this union were born three sons, Archie and Glenn, of Smethport, and Glade, of Honolulu, Hawaii. Glade being identified with the U. S. Regular army and so far from home, it was impossible for him to be present at the funeral.

About 10 years ago Mr. Mencer removed to Smethport, working in the oil fields about two years. Since 1914 he has been employed steadily by the Norwich Chemical company.

Besides his wife and three sons, deceased leaves one brother, William, of Indiana, Pa., and three sisters, Mrs. Marvin Mayes, Brookville; Mrs. William McCauley, New Bethlehem, and Mrs. Clinton Williams, Corry, Pa.

Funeral services were conducted at the home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Masonic and K. O. T. M. lodges, Rev. William E. VanDyke of St. Luke's Episcopal church officiating. Interment was made in Rose Hill cemetery.

An upright man in every sense the term implies, a citizen of real worth, Fred Mencer was respected by all who knew him, and in this their hour of sadness the family has the assurance of the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

GRANT CARPENTER.

Grant Carpenter, aged 57 years, was born in Farmersville, Cataraugus county, New York, and had been a resident of Smethport during the past 12 years. Mr. Carpenter's first employment in Smethport was with Mr. M. H. Kelly, the liveryman, following which he was employed by Mr. T. F. Hungtville for several years. After leaving Mr. Hungtville's employ he accepted a position in the Acetone plant, where he was regarded as a faithful and dependable employe. A man of excellent habits and the possessor of a genial, whole-souled disposition, Grant Carpenter not only was one of the best known of Smethport's citizens, but highly respected as well. Everywhere and by everyone he was regarded as a man of exceptional integrity. Modest and unassuming, he nevertheless interested himself in the welfare of others and never turned a deaf ear to a cry of distress. Although his life was uneventful he developed a character that was well worthy of emulation, and his passing leaves a void that will be difficult indeed to fill. Mr. Carpenter made his home with his sister, Mrs. S. Keesler, in East Main street, where the funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock Rev. W. E. VanDyke officiating. Another sister, Mrs. Robert Rice also of Smethport, survives.

T. CHESTER MATTON.

T. Chester Matton, aged 33 years, was born in the city of Reading, Pa. He received a common school education, following which he entered State College, where he devoted himself to general studies, finally perfecting himself in the science of chemistry. He graduated from State College with high honors in 1915. After leaving college he was united in marriage to Miss Mildred Aukerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Aukerman of Altoona, Pa. To this union one child was born, Barbara Ann, better known as "Little Bonnie," a winsome lass of six who has found her way into the heart of scores of Smethport's citizens. Shortly after his marriage Mr. Matton assumed the duties of chemist for an Everett, Pa., institution, with which he continued until two years ago when he became identified with the Norwich Chemical company of Smethport, in a similar capacity.

Mr. Matton, ever of student mold, was known as a home man. Although the possesser of a genial disposition, he seldom mixed with the throng, evidently deriving his pleasures from his home, his studies and a few intimate friends. He was, however, a lover of wholesome sports and the great outdoors. A man of sterling integrity, he enjoyed the respect and confidence of all who knew him. His untimely death came as a terrible shock to the community.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of Mr. Matton's parents in Reading, Pa., Monday. Interment was made in the Reading cemetery.

Smethport Entertains Pedagogues of County During Record Meet!

Best Institute Ever, is Verdict of Educators; Instructors Prove Surprise to Teachers; Woman Geographer Puts on Effective Demonstration; Enrollment is Great.

A record attendance of teachers and the largest attendance of school directors in the history of the organization comprises two of many outstanding features of the McKean County Teachers' Institute which convened in Smethport last Monday morning.

Never before has McKean county witnessed a bigger or better institute. The attendance at each session has averaged full 100 per cent. and the interest has proved so great as to evoke the warmest commendation on the part of the instructors.

Forty-one members of the McKean County School Directors' association were in attendance on the first day, which fact also surprised the instructors.

The sessions throughout have been replete with interest and profit. Better instructors never appeared before the McKean institute. In Richard Burton, of the University of Minnesota, the teachers have found one really great exponent of English. His treatment of those masters of English literature, Dickens and Mark Twain," proved decided revealations. By means of Burton's delineations and interpretations the teachers were enabled to obtain a better insight into those master minds— to see and understand that which had never occurred to them before. Thursday night Burton will deal with "The Voice as an Element of Culture."

Miss Erma Grassmuck has proved herself the peer of any and the superior of many in the matter of teaching the teachers how to teach geography. In order to demonstrate her work more effectively she appeared on the platform with a class of 15 sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils and drilled them in a geography lesson so thoroughly, and yet withal so simply, that even old-boiled podagogues wondered why they had never thought of such a method.

Dr. C. F. Hoban of the Educational Department at Harrisburg; Jessie Scott Himes, one of the leading experts in primary methods; Harry Allen, specialist in health education; Charles C. Ellis, Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., all contributed to a program of instruction unexcelled in the annals of McKean county.

The institute will come to a close Friday evening.

The evening entertainments given by the Crawford Adams Concert company, the Eekhoff Concert company and the Hinshaw Male Quartette were even better than advertised and highly appreciated by the teachers.

The names of the teachers attending the institute will be found on another page of this issue.

REV. GREGSON RETURNS TO SMETHPORT CHARGE; BREAKS LOCAL RECORD.

Rev. Arthur Gregson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, has been returned to Smethport for another year by the Genesee conference, which closed its annual session at Rochester, Monday. News of Rev. Mr. Gregson's reappointment was received with glad acclaim by church workers of all denominations, with whom he is deservedly popular. Mr. Gregson now enters upon his sixth year as pastor of the local charge, which is a record breaker, in that it exceeds the term of any previous appointment. Other appointments for the immediate vicinity follow:

Bradford, First church, S. A. Keen.
Bradford, Ashbury, W. W. Bailey.
Duke Center, R. O. Barber.
Derrick City, W. H. Edmunds.
Crosby and Betula, J. H. Bailey.
Eldred, E. J. Burton.
Port Allegany, F. P. Simens.
Smethport, Arthur Gregson.
Rev. J. H. Bailey, newly appointed Crosby-Betula pastor, will occupy the pulpit at the Crosby church next Sunday.

McKean School Kiddies Spring Agreeable Surprise on People

One of the very best exhibitions reflective of the ability of the pupils of McKean county's schools is on display in the Smethport school house and those interested in the work of the children will miss a rare treat indeed if they neglect to see it.

While space prevents individual mention of the many exhibitors, it truthfully can be said that practically all who have contributed are deserving of mention. Are the children of today smarter than their fore-bears or have advantages multiplied to such an extent as to awaken every latent talent? Such is the question one asks himself when viewing the exhibit—a question difficult indeed to answer.

The exhibits not only are manifold but varied. As one enters the west room front he finds Smethport's contributions, composed of composition on geography, history, —both general and local—essays on various topics, all neatly written in book form, bound in workmanlike manner, with covers ornamented by drawings and tints in harmony with binding. Other exhibits by local pupils consists of relief maps of the United States, various continents and islands, fabricated from plasto, cane, and of such faultless construction and so beautifully tinted as to excite both surprise and admiration.

Off on the west wall, however, is the surprise exhibit of all—the handiwork of 7th and 8th grade pupils of Derrick City, performed under the direction of Jerry N. Ashway, teacher. It is a map of Pennsylvania, illustrated, each county revealing its principal product. This exhibit must be seen to be appreciated.

The handiwork of Kane pupils also is a center o interest, consisting as it does of beautiful drawings, health placards and well-written and well-bound compositions.

An exhibition of native plants and flowers mounted on placards, together with drawings, specimens of the penmanship and health placards, all of a surprisingly high order, constitute the exhibit of Westmore pupils.

Foster township pupils, however, are nothing if not original. Native woods so arranged as to reveal the cross section, heart and bark of each tree peculiar to Northwestern Pennsylvania are mounted on a mammoth placard and so well arranged that the work looks like it had been performed by a finished scientist.

A health chart, illustrated, and with clock dials depicting the hour for work, for leisure and for rest, all so well arranged that it constitutes a health argument in itself, is the contribution of 7th and 8th grade pupils of Derrick City. Really the chart is a study.

Rew City pupils evidently have specialized in cotton, for their exhibit reveals cotton in its various stages—from is growth in the pod to the ultimate of its refinement, together with several of its products, such as cottonseed meal and oil.

Port Allegany's contribution, consisting for the most part of penmanship and drawings, is a fine exhibition indeed. Annin township with a similar display divides honors with Port Allegany.

Bradford, Norwich and Keating township also specialized in map drawing, penmanship and health placards, with illustrations of a surprisingly high order.

The exposition will be open to the public until and including Friday evening. All parents and those interested in the work of children are invited to attend that which is considered one of the best exhibitions ever put on in Smethport.

NEWS OF THE SECTION and Exchange Clippings

Coudersport—The 55th reunion of the Coudersport consistory, held last week, proved a great success. Fully five visitors from various part of the state among the number being A. J. Hyatt of Smethport, were present. A large class of candidates were received into the order.

Bradford—The danger of forest fires in the woods at this time of year was demonstrated Friday when a grass fire of small proportions was discovered on the lease of Park and Underwood at Rew. Fortunately the blaze was discovered and extinguished before causing any serious damage. It is believed that the fire was started by persons who were in the woods gathering chestnuts.

Bradford—An oil deal of importance was completed at Richburg the other day, the Bertell property of Richburg being sold to F. M. Friar, F. L. Putman and M. A. Putman, all of Richburg, for $45,000. The property consists of fifty acres and has ten producing wells.

Eldred—The water well drilled by the local water company struck a large vein of good water at the depth of 67 feet and Thursday the test proved entirely satisfactory. The test gave a delivery of over 50 barrels an hour for about seven hours, at the end of which time the hole was filled higher than when the pump was put on, which would indicate that the supply is abundant.

Coudersport—A squad of state police dropped in to Coudersport this week with a result that 35 autoists were taxed and had to appear before a justice and contribute $13 each for violations of the traffic laws.

Kane—Because he was smoking while having gasoline put into his automobile, W. J. Simmons, R. D. 10 of Dunkirk, had his Mitchell six nearly ruined by fire. Mr. Simmons had driven up in front of the Smith vulcanizing shop to get some gasoline. He was smoking a cigar and had hold of the end of the hose when the cigar set fire to fumes from the gasoline and there was an explosion. Fortunately neither he nor Mrs. Smith, who was pumping the gasoline, was burned, but nearly everything combustible on the car was destroyed, including the body, cushions and top. The loss is estimated at about $500 with no insurance.

Shinglehouse—Comrade Henry Darrin of Sterling Run, died Saturday night, aged 79 years. He was a long time resident of Cameron county, and was the oldest member of the Masonic lodge of Emporium, which had charge of the services, held Wednesday afternoon. His daughter, Mrs. Mark Sherwood and family of this boro attended the funeral.

Ridgway—John Silipo, of Johnsonburg, charged with being an accessory in the murder of Edward Dill, was acquitted by the jury following binding instructions issued by Judge Baird. Lack of evidence was the basis of the court's mandate for acquittal. The verdict was taken in open court.

Shinglehouse—Kenneth Donovan of Wild Cat was badly injured Thursday while assisting Herbert Jandrews in dynamiting stumps on Chestnut Hill. He had lighted a fuse to a charge of dynamite under a big stump and it exploded. Donovan's right hand between the last two fingers was split open and the little finger broken and crushed, his chest, arms and face were blown full of dirt and his face was somewhat cut.

POTTER COUNTY LEADS IN CERTIFIED POTATOES, IS WORD FROM CAPITAL

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—Until last year certified Pennsylvania potatoes were unknown, but this year potato growers will produce 60,000 bushels that will be equal to the best grown anywhere in the country, Secretary Fred Rasmussen, of the state department of agriculture, announces. Practically all of the crop of certified potatoes were grown in Cambria and Potter counties.

Inspection of the certified potatoes in the field and after they have been harvested is made by the department of agriculture, working in conjunction with the extension service of State College, which assists in preparing the fields for certification. When the project of growing certified potatoes in Pennsylvania was started last year, 25,000 bushels were produced.

THE VOICE WITH THE SMILE

When your Bell telephone operator answers your call, she says

"Number, please?"

She says it with the pleasant rising inflection which expresses better than words her desire to serve you.

She was chosen for her ability and intelligence.

She was trained to be quick, careful and accurate.

She has all of these qualities.

And in addition, she has "the voice with the smile."

It's not just a part of her "stock in trade."

The desire to serve her neighbors and friends is in her very nature.

So she says "Number, please?"

That little word "please" takes a lot of time when thousands of calls are considered.

But its worth all the time it takes.

For the telephone operator knows that courtesy pays.

UNITED WE STAND!

The meeting of the County Board of Road Supervisors and good roads advocates in Smethport, Tuesday, October 3, not only fulfilled the expectations of every good roads booster in the county, but by reason of unanimity in all things affecting highway improvement, made perfectly plain a situation which a certain few disgruntled personages have sought to becloud.

The meeting proved that every good roads advocate in McKean county stands four-square for the completion of the primary roads. Furthermore, that this has been their attitude ever since the first highway improvement was projected. In the language of Commissioner A. J. Bond: "Unanimity has brought to McKean county a greater share of good roads (size of county considered) than any other county in the state."

Commissioner Bond's statements, received as they were with loud acclaim by every road supervisor and road booster present at the meeting, clinched The Miner's repeated declaration of co-operation, made during the past several weeks and proved beyond doubt that there never was any basis for a declaration of disunity. The rebuke for to the disgruntled, for that is what it amounted to, was timely. In future any attempt to sow discord among those who know what they want will prove exceeding risktul. The fact that the discordant ones were conspicuous by their absence at the meeting, is regarded as significant.

DEAN OF STATE COLLEGE WILL ADDRESS FARMERS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25.

Dean Watts of the Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture will address McKean county farmers at the annual Farm Bureau meeting to be held in the court house Wednesday, October 25.

A special roast lamb dinner will be served at Munn's restaurant at 1 o'clock for all attending the meeting at 50 cents a plate. The dinner part of the program should be a social feature. Several talks will be given at the dinner, where it is hoped many farmers with their families will be in attendance.

Mr. F. P. Weaver, county agent leader of the State of Pennsylvania will also give an address in extension work and farm economics.

If you expect to be able to attend the dinner send your name to the Farm Bureau Office at an early date.

AUDIENCE IS DELIGHTED WITH CRAWFORD-ADAMS.

The Crawford, Adams Concert company delighted a large assembly Tuesday evening at the Lyceum. All the members of the company were skilled artists, but Crawford Adams, the violinist, was a player of exceptional ability. He possessed an unusually large repertoire and after playing his selected list of pieces, called for selections from the audience. These ranged from the most classical to light popular airs; all of which he played with beautiful expression and the utmost ease. His audience applauded to the echo.

DETERMINED TO WIN.

Weather permitting, the Smethport base ball club will meet the Rixford club in battle on the local diamond Sunday afternoon, in a game that will tell the tale of superiority once and for all. The local boys, chargrined over the balloon ascension of two weeks ago, are determined to maintain the standard of the best team in Northwestern Pennsylvania, a team that has won 26 out of 29 games played and tied in two games, suffering 7 defeats in all.

SEVERELY SCALDED.

Mrs. William Monheimer of East Main street was scalded Sunday last, when, engaged in lifting a pot of hot coffee from the range, the pot slipped in such manner that a goodly portion of the contents were spilled upon her abdomen and right limb. Considering the quantity of coffee spilled, her burns are quite severe. Her many friends will be pleased to learn, however, that she is resting comfortably now.

GRANGE MEET IS SET FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 14, WITH SPECIAL PROGRAM

Fidelity Grange, No. 1235, will meet Saturday, October 14, instead of the 21st, as planned, because of business demanding immediate consideration. During the session the third and fourth degrees will be conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barnum of the O. K. farm, following which a reception will be given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Barnum and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mosher. Messrs. Barnum and Mosher, the new owners of the Clarinda creamery, come to Smethport highly recommended. In a letter to Mr. Henry J. Rice, receiver Monday, Mr. N. H. Wilmarth, deputy for Pomona Grange No. 7, New Milford, Pa., says that both gentlemen are deserving of every courtesy that can be extended them. He also adds that Mr. Mosher was at one time a fellow deputy for Pomona Grange No. 7. Following the reception ceremony a fitting farewell will be given Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Miller, who, following disposal of their interests in this vicinity, will leave for Indiana. Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller have long been active in Grange affairs and their going will leave a gap that will be hard to fill.

FOR CONGRESS

ELISHA K. KANE

COAL MINING

Has become the most important industry of Clearfield and Centre Counties. It stopped for five months because of a dispute between operators' association and miners' union. No laws define their rights, no courts could decide them. During the quarrel the miners gradually used up all their savings. Merchants sold less goods and had to give more credit. Both merchants and miners drew down their bank accounts; bankers called in loans, and manufacturers and farmers were pinched. The trouble having been patched up for a few months by raising coal prices, cement, steel and brick plants are raising prices or reducing production, and hand glass plants claim they must lower wages or shut down. Raising prices for such material may cause a slump in the building boom like that of 1921.

Mine Workers' leaders wisely incorporated in the strike settlement a fact-finding joint commission. Government officials propose a price-fixing plan, and a railroad car distribution plan, and some congressmen advocate Federal operation of mines as if they had learned nothing from the disastrous Federal operation of railroads.

I prefer Theodore Roosevelt's control plan. I desire an Interstate Coal Commission with powers like those which the Interstate Commerce commission exercises over railroads. It not only finds facts, but it hares orders on them. It compels safe operation and reasonable rates. Before it became effective, my lumber business was unsafe until I competed with three competing railroads. Now my brick and tile factories can sell anywhere without fear of unfair competition. The railroads also have profited, and their trainmen are in less peril of life or limb. Miners' lives and limbs are just as precious. Industry and commerce are quite as dependent on coal being regularly supplied at fair prices. I am not financially interested nor employed in coal mining, and, if sent to Congress will represent all concerned in an impartial, business-like way. Clip and preserve this article.

C. & B. LINE STEAMERS OPERATE DAILY UNTIL NOVEMBER 15th.

These beautiful autumn days are attracting many travelers to the lake routes. The magnificent steamers of the C. & B. line are heated by steam throughout and the traveler will find this a most convenient and comfortable mode of travel between Cleveland and Buffalo. Leaving Cleveland or Buffalo any evening at 9:00, the passenger, after a night of refreshing sleep, arrives at opposite end of route at 7:30 the following morning.

Automobile tourists will appreciate this splendid service, eliminating, as it does, 200 miles of rather uninteresting and tiresome road travel. The rates, too, are correspondingly low.

father was there, and it seemed as if my feet were set in motion ere I had time to think. Rushing toward the burning structure, I saw a man coming up the track without a scrap of clothing on his person. I knew he was a victim of the explosion and I rushed toward him. A number of other men, however, evidently actuated by the same impulse, intercepted me and took charge of the man. I didn't recognize him, in fact I couldn't, he was so terribly disfigured. I believe that that man was Grant Carpenter. He was walking up the track in an ordinary gait. Naturally, my mind was intent on father. I rushed straight for the building. A number of men were there ahead of me and they had surrounded the injured who had been taken out. I felt that father was among them, but if he was, I failed to recognize him. I then went inside to help. I saw Chester Marion lying inside the building on a number of acetate bags. He was taken out immediately. The rescuers fearing another explosion, warned me away after assuring me that all the injured had been removed. I looked over the injured but didn't see or perhaps didn't recognize my father. Learning that some of the men had been taken to the doctors, I boarded a taxi, arriving home just in time to see my father lifted from the auto.

Condition was terrible, but he didn't complain. In response to my queries, he said that his limbs hurt and felt cold. Then he asked me how many others were injured and how they were getting along. He told me that he had just reached the doorway when the explosion occurred, that he was just one minute too late in getting away. He was all prepared for the journey home and was awaiting the arrival of Fred Young to relieve him, yet the thought that Mr. Young was not there when the explosion occurred appeared to solace him. At one point in his conversation father said that if the wind had only been blowing from the opposite direction—from east instead of west—the explosion would not have occurred. It was his opinion that the wind carried the deadly gasses into the boiler room where they ignited.

Carpenter was the only man I saw walking. Later I was informed that he walked upstairs into Doctor's Hamilton's office unassisted.

"Although desperately injured, father thought that every one of his fellow workmen was far worse off than himself. That was on his mind all the time—even to the end. Beyond me that night, I never heard the rabbling, in time to shout a warning to his comrades. Badger narrowly escaped with his life.

"When I arrived at the plant you I lost no time in getting there. It seemed that an army of men had preceded me, so quick was the response to aid. Surely, we who have suffered irreparable loss have reason for thankfulness over Smethport's nobility of soul."

NOTICE

All property owners in the Borough are requested to trim their shade trees from the ground up to a height that will permit the free carrying of umbrellas on rainy days, and on Main street the trees should be trimmed up to the height of the top of the ornamental lights. This will make the lights more efficient, look much nicer and it will improve the trees and the lawns underneath. This is the time to trim trees, and if you will do it at once the Borough will carry away the trimmings free of charge.

Human Flea.

"I reckon you had a right lively time in Kansas City?" insinuated an acquaintance.

"Tolable," replied Gabe Gosnell of Grudge. "But nothing like what I probably would have had if I wasn't considerable lively on my feet. You see up in Kansas City, if you meet a respectable looking man anywhere after 4 o'clock in the afternoon anywhere the least bit off to one side, he's a holdup and robs you.

"And if you meet one that don't look respectable he's a plainclothes policeman, and jumps you before you can, he thinks you're a holdup. So I was practically on the keen jump all the time I was there, dodging one or the other."
—Kansas City Star.

DROUGHT KILLS TROUT IN SMALLER STREAMS.

Very poor trout fishing next spring is predicted by sportsmen who have viewed the condition of the streams in this and nearby counties during the past weeks of severe drought. Many of the smaller streams where trout particularly young ones, are ordinarily found during the summer months are now merely rocky beds and this is also true of some of the streams which in normal conditions carry a considerable volume of water. The fish remain in small pools and are caught by the thousands when they begin to seek deeper water. Fishermen have taken pike, pickerel, salmon and other animals which subsist partly on a fish diet. The extent of this destruction cannot be ascertained, but it is the opinion of some well informed sportsmen that it will be sufficient to more than offset the normal gain in numbers between the open seasons.—Port Allegany Reporter.

Yesterday was the last Sunday on which services are to be conducted in the First Methodist church as the structure is soon to be razed to give place to a new edifice. The First Methodist church is the oldest place of worship in the city and for the past 45 years has been attended by large congregation every time the doors were opened for a meeting. During these many years the church has taken an important part in the history of Bradford.—Bradford Era.

CARD OF THANKS.

In this our hour of sadness, occasioned by the terrible death of our beloved husband and father, we feel that recognition of the manifold kindness [illegible] Smethport's citizens [illegible] and to extend our sincere heartfelt thanks. The love and tenderness made manifest on the part of near and newly found friends did much to strengthen us in meeting the greatest trial of our lives. The many beautiful floral offerings were indeed expressive of their tender solicitude. That God may reward them, is our prayer. Sincerely,

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN IS CALLED BY DEATH

The death of George Eastman, one of Liberty township's best known and highly respected citizens, took place Friday night at 10:30 o'clock following a long illness.

Mr. Eastman was 62 years of age. Forty-two years ago he married Miss Orilla Brundage at Wellsville and came here from Wellsville about 30 years ago to work for W. L. Sawyer. He later purchased the farm on which he made his home many years. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Snyder and one son, Leslie Eastman. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Ruth Grimes of Hallport, N. Y.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the M. E. church at Wrights, of which he was a member, Rev. F. P. Simmons officiating, and interment was made in the Wrights cemetery.—Port Allegany Reporter.

DAIRY LEAGUE SHOWS OCTOBER MILK PRICES SAME AS SEPTEMBER.

The October schedule and class prices, issued for October 5 in the prices asked for milk in Class 3-A. Milk in this class is used in the manufacture of evaporated and sweetened condensed milk and so comes in competition with milk from the Middle West. In order to meet the prices asked there the League directors have reduced the price of milk in this class from 55 cents a hundred over the butter price to 47 cents a hundred.

The price for October will be as follows:

Class 1. Milk sold in fluid form, $2.90 per hundred pounds.

Class 2. Milk sold for use chiefly in the making of cream and ice cream, $2.00.

Class 3-A. Milk sold for the manufacture of canned milk, 47 cents per hundred pounds over the price to be determined on milk for butter in October.

Class 3-B. Milk for the manufacture of fancy hard cheeses, 40 cents per hundred pounds over the price to be determined for milk for butter in October.

Class 4. Milk for butter and cheese to be determined in the usual manner by the average wholesale price of these products in the New York City market during October.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Most Miles per Dollar
Everywhere You Hear It—
Firestone Builds the Finest Cords
HARDLY a day goes by but some one goes out of his way to tell us that Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are the best tires built.
Cords—as only Firestone builds them—will give you many extra thousands of miles of wear. And for fall and winter driving there's nothing like them. The strong, resilient Firestone carcass of gum-dipped cords, can stand the hardest punishment.
With the reputation Firestone Cords hold, it is not surprising that so many motorists in this community have made them standard equipment. The demand for Firestone Cords in the last few months has broken all records.
Prices were never so low as they are now. Perhaps never again can mileage be sold so cheaply.
Decide now that you will get Most Miles per Dollar. Drop in any time and let's talk them.

Compare Cars

by standardized tests

As Experts Do

There are 12 vital tests used by automotive engineers in judging different makes of cars. Their method is now available to the public.

Three years ago we gave to the public the accepted standards of comparison used by the leading automotive engineers. Previously their method had been a trade secret because it was so technical.

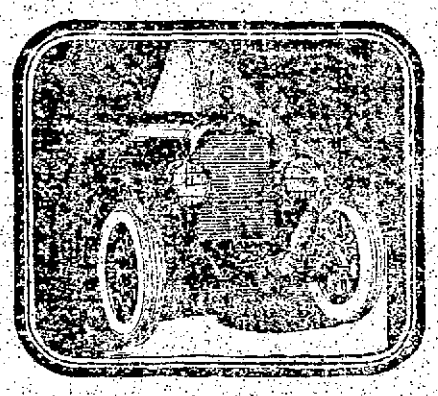
We simplified the method yet retained every fundamental element of comparison. We introduced then the first Marmon Demonstration week. We prepared a score-card which made it possible for anyone to compare several cars and know exactly what each could do.

So welcome and so successful was this plan that we have continued it and now announce the Third Annual Marmon Demonstration Week, October 9 to 14.

We invite every car owner to take advantage of this great educational opportunity. Marmons will be available for all who wish to conduct comparisons. The score-card shows how to put cars through the 12 vital tests of performance and how to score and compare.

This invitation is open to all, whether or not in the market for a new car. Those who accept will not be importuned to buy. Remember, we have advocated higher standards of comparison for three years and we hold this Demonstration Week each year in the cause of education, primarily. We are looking ahead—we know that the more people who can compare cars wisely will eventually join the contented group of Marmon owners.

So do not hesitate, please, to accept this invitation. Call or telephone. A Marmon will be placed at your disposal.



The new Marmon Phaeton, with the wonderful Panorama Top, is now on exhibit, together with other Marmon models. It is the finest Marmon of them all, with dozens of betterments, yet its low price, maintenance economy and dependability make it today's most attractive purchase among fine cars.
